DAMAGE

To Telephones By Wind and Lightning.

Another Runaway Horse Reported—All the Seatonville News Of the Past Week.

Seatonville, Aug. 13.—The wind, rain, thunder and lightning caused much damage to telephones, sheds, etc., Monday afternoon, the Citizens phone being entirely burned out, and all communication with the outside world being entirely cut off. Hope to have it fixed in a few hours.

Funeral of Press Brown.
We were very much disappointed in not getting to attend the funeral of our old friend, Mr. Press Brown, of Okolona, at Pennsylvania Run last Friday, but want to express through your valuable paper to the bereaved family and to the Salen community, of which he was a devoted member, our sincere and deepest sympathy.

Runaways All The Go.
Mrs. Henry Meyers, while driving a spirited horse to a run-about last week to Seatonville, came very near having as serious a wreck in the identical place that Mr. Roy Reid had a wreck just two weeks ago. Not from the iron bound hoots of a fast horse but the remnants of the wrecked buggy of Mr. Roy. Some people have an erroneous idea that at this season of the year we have nothing to do on a farm, but we know from experience that Roy has a lot to do and has been too busy to move the broken buggy and had set it up against a hay stack in Mr. Jean's field. Mrs. Meyers became frightened at the dark object, ran away and probably would have been hurt had it not been for one of our gallant neighbors, Mr. Ben Sewell. As it was, there was only a broken trace and the buggy top moved to a more remote place.

Crystal Wedding Celebrated.
Messrs. Frank Jean, K. S. Mills and families attended the crystal wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Surles at their beautiful home near Jeffersontown last Saturday evening. The lawn was attractively decorated in Japanese lanterns. The luncheon was ideal, had some beautiful music and singing by the talented musicians, Miss Nellie Williams, of Corydon, Indiana, a cousin of Mrs. Surles, and the Misses Cardwell, and a nice time talking to old and new friends. This happy couple received some handsome presents of cut-glass, and all left before midnight wishing them many more happy years together.

CARNIVAL

In Jeffersontown Hurt By Rain.

The Shows First Class—Not Altogether a Failure—Commercial Club's Good Work.

Despite the unfavorable weather and small attendance at the big street fair and carnival given last week the success of the Jeffersontown Commercial Club, in Jefferson Heights, it was not a failure. While the Littlejohn's United Shows lost money on the week's engagement, the Commercial Club having some extra features and being given 2 per cent on all tickets sold, came out a little to the good.

The efforts of the members of the Commercial Club should be appreciated, as on the nights the weather was favorable the people turned out in large numbers. The shows, with possibly one exception—the snake girl—were all that was claimed for them. They were clean and wholesome and worth more than the small admission fee charged. The ladies and gentlemen with the show company acted as such and made a favorable impression upon the community.

Had it not been for the rain storm Thursday night the largest crowd of the week would have been on hand. Residents of the Central Lincoln Road, wearing Buechel Commercial Club badges, came over on two chartered cars and got a good drenching.

Saturday, the last day, was called "Louisville Day," and extra cars were put on. Just as the performances were about to begin in the afternoon a heavy rain storm came up and stopped the show. At night the largest crowd of the week was on hand and everything did well.

Boys Worked Well.

The committees appointed by the Commercial Club to look after the Club's interests worked well and were "on the job" at all times. The "Queen of the Carnival" committee was the only one that failed to do its duty. The contest was not started, and as a result the most popular lady was not given a handsome ring. The committee on arrangements, headed by Frank Fanelli, did splendid work. Walter Harris, as chairman of the ticket takers, assisted by Ben Stockhoff, Sidney Ragland, Clarence E. Alcock, P. P. Litterer, Charles Tyler and others, worked faithfully every night.

R. B. Smith, president of the Club, is to be congratulated for the way he has managed the big undertaking.

The feature "attraction" of the shows was the country store of the Commercial Club, in charge of Frank Fanelli and J. C. Alcock, committee, assisted by J. P. Sprawl and Chas. D. Tyler. The ladies of course, helped in this department. On the last night of the carnival a fortune wheel was secured and two barrels of flour and several nice boxes of groceries, etc., were given away at from five to twenty cents a chance. Dr. L. A. Blankenbaker proved himself to be lucky by winning a barrel of flour, box of groceries, etc. Esq. Chas. C. Wheeler, of Buechel, was also the lucky winner of a barrel of flour.

Charlie White-Moon had a booth on the grounds, as did also Harry A. Short, agent for Dr. Daniels' horse and dog medicines, and Carl Purcell with his cream separator.

The shows left Saturday night for Leitchfield, where they are showing at the Grayson county fair this week. The Jeffersontown Commercial Club will meet tomorrow (Friday) night and settle up accounts.

On account of rain some were disappointed. Those present were Misses Margaret Reid, Elizabeth Reid, Alma Paris, Margaret Evans, Elizabeth Katherine and Brunette Money, Mattie Belle and Winnie Reid, Margaret Thurman, Sue and Stephen Reid, Mrs. Alma Paris, Eliza Reid, Ida Carter. The evening was spent playing croquet and other out-door games and dainty refreshments were served at 5 o'clock. All had a most delightful time, as can always be said after being entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Reid.

NEW TOWN

Coggeshall, $300.00; lot 17, 50 feet at $5.75, John Stutzenberger, $287.50. Total amount of sale $9,700.00.

The above is an average of $2.50 per acre, which makes it the highest price paid for this class of property ever sold in Jefferson county. Eight years ago this property was purchased at $281 an acre, and the sale Saturday shows how rapidly property is advancing in the Hikes' Point country. The property bought by Mr. Hoke contains the famous Belle-Fontaine medical well. Developed by buildings, other subdivisions will be opened up and Hikes' Point will be a town of at least 1,500 in five years. It is only three and one-half miles from the city limits, 5 cent car fare, in splendid section, with several made streets (county pikes).

COMMERCIAL

Club of Jeffersontown Meets Tomorrow.

Will Settle Up Accounts of Carnival and Plan Future Work.

The Jeffersontown Commercial Club has been a busy organization this year. Last week it pulled off the biggest proposition ever attempted by a country club in Jefferson county when it carried to a successful end the big fair and carnival under most unfavorable conditions. Despite the bad weather the Club will make some money out of the venture and will sell the town trustees erect electric lamps in Jeffersontown.

To settle accounts and receive reports from the various committees the Club is called to meet tomorrow (Friday) night by President H. E. Smith. The public is invited to attend, as an effort will probably be made to effect a permanent organization.

Greater Things Planned.

The Commercial Club this year has already secured electric lights for the community, two chemical fire engines, better service on the electric cars, and other things. It has under consideration at this time better mail service, better roads and schools, and a general improvement of this part of Jefferson county. It is not merely devoted to that part of Jeffersontown that is within the corporate limits, as some seem to think, but goes farther than that and is endeavoring to build up this whole section. Let the people of the Club their united support, and greater things than ever will be accomplished. Come out tomorrow night at Bruce Hall at 8 o'clock; see what was done at the carnival and help start something else.

Good Man Dead.

Mr. P. H. Brown, a well known farmer, died at his home near the Preston Street cemetery, Wednesday, August 7, at 6:30 o'clock of a complication of diseases. He was buried August 9, at 11 o'clock at the Pennsylvania Run cemetery, where his many friends and relatives had gathered to pay their tribute of respect. The community in which he lived has lost a grand and noble character, as he had been a Christian since his early boyhood and was always found trying to lead others to a better life. There can be no estimate put upon what his family has lost and there will always be a vacant place which cannot be filled.

FAIR

At Fern Creek Now In Progress.

Attendance Good and Stock Better Than Ever—Yesterday's Results.

The Jefferson County Fair opened with "entry day" Tuesday at Fern Creek, and the largest and best floral exhibits ever known at this fair were entered. The farm and garden "sassa" is better than usual, and there is much interest taken in all the exhibits. Premiums have been awarded and names of winners will be published in our issue of next week.

Yesterday's attendance was large for the first day of the stock show rings. The feature event of the day was the fastest trot or pace race with $500 premiums. The race was won by J. R. Stark, whose horse made the fastest mile ever made on the Fern Creek track. The mile race with only two entries, as usual, furnished great amusement by the animals' peculiar capers.

Today is "Louisville Day" and the largest crowd of the week is expected. Tomorrow, "Woodrow Wilson Day," is the last and best day. Liberal premiums are offered on stock for both days.

Yesterday's Awards.

Following are the winners in the stock show rings yesterday:

Best stallion, $5, J. L. Simcoe. Best colt, first $5, E. T. Tucker; second $2, Bert Hall; third, $1, S. J. Nicholson. Best two-year-old, first $5, S. J. Nicholson; second and third, $2 and $1, J. L. Simcoe.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The story opens at Monte Carlo with Col. Theodore O'Rourke in his hotel. O'Rourke, a military officer, is dressing for appearance in the restaurant below when the sound of a rifle shot, which is a signal for the start of a race, attracts his attention. Leaving out of the balcony he sees a beautiful girl who suddenly disappears. He rushes to the corridor and a man in a military uniform enters the elevator and passes from sight.

CHAPTER II.—O'Rourke's mind is filled with thoughts of the girl, and when he goes to the gaming table he is attracted by the remarkable winnings to accumulate. He notices two men watching him. One is the Hon. Bertie Glynn, while his companion is Viscount de Tréves, a noted diplomat. When O'Rourke takes the table the viscount tells him he represents the French government and that he has been directed to O'Rourke as a man who would undertake a secret mission.

CHAPTER III.—At his room O'Rourke, who had agreed to undertake the mission, receives the viscount. The viscount arrives, hands a sealed package to O'Rourke, who is not to open it until the evening. They are accompanied by an attendant who pays O'Rourke 2500 francs for his services. A pair of diamond earrings are seen protruding from under a doorway curtain and the viscount charges O'Rourke with having a spy secreted there.

CHAPTER IV.—When the Irishman goes to his room he finds there the owner of the mystery, Bertie Glynn. He is a man of the name of the Pool of Flame. Bertie, from whom he had run away a year ago, is now a wealthy man. He is offering the letter he had received, he finds that a letter from Birmingham, India, offers him 10000 pounds for an Indian jewel known as the Pool of Flame and left to him by a dying friend. O'Rourke tells his wife that it is the offering of a friend named Chambret in Algeria.

CHAPTER V.—O'Rourke is forced to fight a duel with the viscount. The arrogant nobleman is wounded in the combat and acts the part of a fool.

CHAPTER VI.—The loyal wife finds O'Rourke farewell and he promises to fight a duel with the viscount. He discovers both when he leaves the ship which he boarded the ship which takes him to Algeria.

CHAPTER VII.—Chambret has left Algeria and O'Rourke has to raise a military detachment going across the desert to reach the place where he is to find the letter there is an attack by bandits and Chambret is shot.

CHAPTER VIII.—Chambret dies telling O'Rourke that he has left the Pool of Flame with the governor general of Algeria. He gives the colonel a silver ring as the sign of which he says the official will deliver over the jewel.

CHAPTER IX.—O'Rourke is attacked by Glynn and the viscount who ransack his luggage, but he wounds them in the conflict.

CHAPTER X.—When he arrives at Algiers he finds the Frenchman dead and a general away. He receives a note from Tréves making a mysterious appointment.

CHAPTER XI.—The viscount tells O'Rourke that he has stolen possession of the jewel by stealing it from the safe of the governor general. He offers him, however, know who has offered the reward for it. He suggests a duel with rapiers, the victor to get that information and the jewel.

CHAPTER XII.—In the duel O'Rourke masters his adversary and secures possession of the Pool of Flame.

CHAPTER XIII.—The efforts of O'Rourke are now directed toward rapidly getting to Birmingham with the jewel and he starts on his journey.

CHAPTER XIV.—He finds the captain of the vessel to be a smuggler who tries to steal the jewel from him.

CHAPTER XV.—The jewel is finally secured by the ship's captain and O'Rourke escapes to land.

CHAPTER XVI.—With the aid of one Danny and his sweetheart, O'Rourke recovers the Pool of Flame.

CHAPTER XVII.—O'Rourke again forms his plans to pursue his journey to Birmingham.

CHAPTER XVIII.—On board ship once more a mysterious lady appears who puzzles and interests the Irishman.

CHAPTER XIX.—O'Rourke comes upon a lazar about to attack the lady, who is a Mrs. Pryne. He kills the man into the hold.

CHAPTER XX.—Mrs. Pryne claims she is on route for India on a mission for the king.

CHAPTER XXI.—The ship captain is offered money to increase the speed of the vessel toward its destination.

CHAPTER XXII.—There are suspicious occurrences on board, and a lazar seems to be watching O'Rourke and Mrs. Pryne.

CHAPTER XXIII.—The woman tells of some one prowling about the cabin and trying the door of her stateroom.

CHAPTER XXIV.—O'Rourke is attacked by the lazar, who secures the Pool of Flame. The lazar is shot and the lazar jumps into the sea.

CHAPTER XXV.—The ship arrives in Port and O'Rourke learns that Mrs. Pryne has preceded him ashore.

CHAPTER XXVI.—Danny hands O'Rourke the Pool of Flame which he has stolen from Mrs. Pryne. It is the real jewel, the one lost at sea being a counterfeit.

CHAPTER XXVII.—O'Rourke goes to Calcutta determining to get rid of the jewel and out of the country.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—He discovers Des Tréves disguised and now known that Mrs. Pryne was an accomplice of the nobleman.

CHAPTER XXIX.—Finally he gets to the lawyer who has offered the reward.

CHAPTER XXX.—He delivers the jewel and the lawyer pays over the money.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Going to the residence of the lawyer, the invitation, O'Rourke finds him murdered.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Back in his stateroom on the Poonah, O'Rourke threw himself into the lower berth and lay there, a forearm flung across his eyes, thinking excitedly, disturbed by formless forebodings.

Beside him Danny was packing industriously, with now and again a cause during which he would stand reflective, his gaze fixed upon his employer's face, a little puzzled and perplexed.

The Poonah was pausing overnight to discharge and take aboard cargo; for this reason O'Rourke in his haste to get ashore had delayed to take his luggage with him.

On deck, fore and aft donkey engines were puffing and chugging and chain tackles rattling as they lifted freight to and from the hold and the lighters alongside.

Abruptly, without moving, O'Rourke spoke. "I'll want evening clothes, Danny," said he. "Tis dining I am tonight with Mr. Straker and his niece, Miss Prynsen, who came with us from Diamond Harbor. 'Twill save a bit of bother to dress before I go ashore."

"A-w-w," said Danny, assimilating. "And the misssus?" he said suddenly, some minutes later. "M'an! Madam O'Rourke, sor. Did ye get no word from her?"

"For what else would I be driving to every hotel in the town after leaving Mr. Sypher, Danny, but to inquire for her? She's not here, but she'll come, be sure. She's still got several days—three or four—in which to keep our trust. Tis disconcerted I am not to see her waiting for me, but I'm satisfied entirely she'll keep faith."

"And," insisted Danny eagerly—"beggin' yer honor's pardon—but what will ye have to tell her, sor?"

O'Rourke sat up. "Have to tell her? What d'ye mean?"

"I mean, sor, I'm dyin' 'til the wish to know how ut's all turned out. Place yer honor, would ye be tellin' me? It ut—is ut all right?"

"Bless your heart, Danny!" laughed O'Rourke. "Tis so dazed I've been that I never thought to tell ye—thinkin' all the time that ye knew. 'Tis all right, indeed, me boy. The Pool of Flame's in Mr. Sypher's keeping and the money's in mine—in the bank. Danny, payable to me order. Think of it—one hundred thousand pounds of real money, and all me own. 'Tis ridiculous, 'tis absurd. 'Tis me own money, that's the truth of it all; yet I was there—saw the man, gave him the jewel, went to the bank with him and for the space of five minutes sat at a table, with all that money before me, counting it over, bill by bill, a square hundred of them, each for a thousand pounds, guaranteed by the Bank of England! Think of that—all that belonging to me—to me, O'Rourke!"

"Thank God," breathed Danny devoutly. "But did ye 'farn nothin' about the stone?"

"Little enough, Danny—only a part of the meaning of the whole devilish business of the rest I know to-night. Mr. Sypher 'Il be tellin' me after we've dined; he wants to hear me own end of the story, too."

Sypher had very capriciously named his dinner hour, after the formal English fashion, nowhere and by nobody more rigidly observed than by the Englishman in the Orient. "Eight for eight-thirty," he had said. And as O'Rourke, a very dignified and imposing O'Rourke in his evening dress, waited for the opening of the lower grating of the Poonah's passenger gangplank he had a round three-quarters for an hour for leeway—ample leeway for an interested inquirer to that part of Rangoon lying between the floating-jetty and Sypher's residence in a suburb near Dalhousie Park.

Danny remained aboard ship only temporarily, being instructed to follow with O'Rourke's belongings to suitable accommodations already engaged at a hotel on the Strand, overlooking the roadstead; from whose windows O'Rourke was promising himself the pleasure of watching the arrival of the steamship bearing his wife to his arms.

"Bless her dear face!" said he softly. "Tis me self' will be delighted if she's not aboard that Messageries boat due tomorrow—now that I can go back to her, a man of property, no longer a pulper ne'er-do-well. Think of that, ye lucky dog!"

A sampan sail noiselessly in beside the grating. O'Rourke himself slipped down into it and inconspicuously collapsed upon the rear seat as the boat slid away toward the shore lights, yielding to the vigorous sweeps of the single long oar wielded by the Burman in the bows.

Ashore, a kikkagarry caught him up and bore him down the silent road that winds between the Strand and the river's edge, then whipped into Mogul street, where the festive tide of the broad and deep beneath a glare of light.

THE Jeffersontown Commercial Club has certainly demonstrated its ability to do things—as the big carnival, electric lights and fire engines, etc., will testify. Now, it is up to the people of this section of the county (not merely Jeffersontown citizens) to give the Club their support and help to do greater things than ever before.

A FEDERATION of the various commercial or improvement clubs in Jefferson county outside the city would be an excellent thing. There has been too much rivalry between sections. All have the same interests and what helps one helps the other. By co-operation many ways would develop for improving the country, especially along the various electric lines. The beauty of Jefferson county can not be surpassed anywhere. The trouble now is that the town people get together, advertise, boast and bring about better conditions.

THE Jefferson County Fair is now in progress at Perma Creek. This is an annual affair that is looked forward to with great pleasure by the people of this county—not only because this is one of the best fairs for fine horses, farm products, etc., but because it is a time for the people to get together, a sort of reunion of the whole county. There is nothing that will bring the people together like a county fair, and that is just what is needed. When the people of the whole county realize that the most work together for the common good of all—and do it—better conditions for everybody will come to pass.

WE were asked a few days since this question: "How many men residing within the town limits are members of the Commercial Club?" The party intended to convey the idea that "outsiders" were interfering with the rights of the residents of the town. Some people are so narrow in their views they cannot see farther than their front gates. Half of the men in the club do live outside the corporate limits of the town, but they are public spirited men and have interests here that they want to see advance and have sense enough to know the best way to bring improvement about. We thank the good Lord there are only one or two persons in Jeffersontown that are like the above mentioned crank.

THE BUCHEL COMMERCIAL CLUB.

A greater fraternal spirit was never manifested than last Thursday night when the Commercial Club and citizens of Buchel came over on two chartered cars to attend the carnival and help the Jeffersontown Commercial Club in its efforts to raise a fund to erect street electric lights here. A sad feature of their coming, however, was the fact that the crowd was drenched from head to foot in the heavy rain storm that took place immediately upon their arrival. Just when the ladies, attired in white addresses and shoes, and the men, ready for the happy occasion with a fine fraternal spirit—and money to spend—got off of the cars and went to the show grounds, the rain came down in torrents. A rush was made to open the show tents and entertain the visitors. After so long a time the crowd, wet to the skin, huddled into the tents and witnessed the performance and thinking every minute that the canvas covers would blow away.

Members of the Jeffersontown Commercial Club were heard to simply say, "It's a shame." They were so keenly hurt over the misfortune—that was about all they would say. To show their appreciation to the Buchel people, talk is going the rounds now that the next time Buchel pulls off any kind of a "stunt" all of Jeffersontown will go to its aid.

The spirit shown by the Buchel Commercial Club is the kind of feeling that should exist between all communities and improvement clubs of the county, and we shall be glad when the day comes when all will work in harmony and together on all propositions that help one another.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH FARM BOYS?

A writer recently complained that too many farm boys seek offices of little work and big pay, and as a result the farm declines and the city grows. There is a cause for this state of affairs. What is it? To our way of thinking it is caused by the lack of knowledge concerning farming on the part of the boys, as well as the lack of knowledge of conditions in the city. We can not believe that young America is seeking the city to avoid hard work on the farm.

Ninety per cent of the boys reared on a farm in Kentucky know nothing of the scientific methods of farming. Many of them are given no education of any kind. They are taught by their fathers that to succeed on the farm they will simply have to work, and mean by this, manual labor. Work of the brain, or study of scientific methods, never enter their minds. Why should the boys stay on the farm when they know nothing about it? A majority know nothing of the different producing qualities of soil; they are taught nothing of the value of fine seed, and when the harvest comes they are not organized like the city boys and as a consequence have to accept a lower price than the crops are worth. If some one suggests study of scientific methods of farming, many of the old farmers say "there is nothing in 'book larning'—you have to learn by experience." Experience is probably the best teacher, but experience is worth nothing unless one puts thought into it. To do a thing like father did, without knowing why he did it, is a poor way of thinking, is a bad way.

We do not mean to say that there are no farmers that believe in up-to-date methods, nor that the farmers as a whole are ignorant, for this is not true. A majority simply have been educated in the wrong way. The rest people on earth are farmers, but they are "sot" in their ways. The city man studies every side of his business. He would not think of becoming a professional man without going to school and preparing himself; the merchant that succeeds is one that employs the best system of running his business and one that studies methods of others. Not only this but they organize and stick together on all questions affecting their business. Not so with the farmer. The farmers, as a rule, work hard with their muscles, produce a crop and dispose of it at "the other fellow's price," not knowing that they could do much better by getting together and studying the business.

When the farmer boys of today pull away from their fathers' way of doing things and farm scientifically, more of them will be satisfied with their position in life and will not want to go to the cities and look for the easy jobs. It will be easy on the farm, as the whole world depends on the farmer, and money will come his way.

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR SUBSCRIBERS.

The Shelby County Record last week published the following, which Editor Shinnick calls the "Ten Commandments for Subscribers." We think it very good and publish it in full, changing only the name of The Record to The Jeffersonian, as follows:

- 1st. Thou should pay for thy paper in advance if you would be on good terms with your conscience and the editor.
- 2nd. If you continue to take another man's paper out of the postoffice from the carrier after he has moved away, you are robbing the editor if you do not pay for same.
- 3rd. Thou should look at the label on your paper and not come into the office a year or more after the time has passed and dispute its correctness with the publisher. It is wrong for you to hold the editor responsible for your neglect.
- 4th. If the publisher sends your paper after the date on your label shows it has expired, it is evidence on the part of the publisher that he believes you are honest and will pay the same. Do not disappoint him in his estimate of your integrity.
- 5th. If you are going to change your postoffice, notify the publisher from where you are moving and to what postoffice you want your paper changed. If you owe for your paper at the time you move, he also applies by the credit that he believes in your honesty. You should appreciate this favor by paying for your paper at the very first opportunity.
- 6th. It is just as bad not to pay for your paper as it would be not to pay your grocery bill. It costs just as much money and labor to produce a paper as it does to sell groceries.
- 8th. Remember you get for sale cents a copy of The Jeffersonian, which costs $50 to produce, not counting the capital invested in the business, and it pays you better to take the paper than any investment of a similar amount. If you are not a cheap screw you will take it yourself instead of borrowing it from your neighbor.

9th. Remember that The Jeffersonian stands for you and your family, for your community, for your best interests. That it is devoted to home interests and home people and that the best way you can show your appreciation is to pay for it in advance.

10th. That all delinquent subscribers who refuse to pay and ignore all notices and bills are in danger of wall, you know it is a place where no editors ever go, even to collect subscription accounts.

Let us Do The Work.

Have your letter heads, bill heads, envelopes, cards, wedding invitations, sale bills, berry tickets, etc., printed at the office of The Jeffersonian, the only printing plant in Jefferson county outside the city. Lowest prices and best work should interest you. Call over either phone for estimates.

FARM BOYS

To Have Encampment at Kentucky State Fair—One Boy From Each County.

Each succeeding year brings new features to the Kentucky State Fair, some in point of instruction, others in point of amusement, says the Farmers Home Journal. This year the newest, and one of the best features ever planned by the Fair Management, is the holding of a Farm Boy's Encampment during the week of the Fair. It is planned to have one boy from each of the 120 counties in the State in this encampment. This will give one representative boy from each county a chance to see and to study the best that is possible in the way of Live Stock, Farm Products, Improved Methods, Improved Machinery, and in fact every appliance and tool in use, on an up-to-date farm.

The knowledge and educational benefit derived from this camp of instruction, will be spread broadcast throughout the entire State. The selection of the boys will be made on a competitive examination of essays by a committee composed of the county school superintendent, a member of the State Board of Agriculture and a member of the faculty of the Agricultural College. The applicant must be between the age of 15 and 18 years, and must reside on a farm.

The essay to be submitted by them is to consist of not less than 400 and not more than 600 words, upon the subject of "Our Home Farm." The essay must be in the hands of the committee before the first of August. The applicant whose essay receives the highest standing, will be entitled to a free trip to the Kentucky State Fair from each county.

In addition to free transportation, lodging and meals at the Fair Grounds will be furnished. The boys will be met at the railroad station in Louisville by competent guides, who will take them to the Fair Grounds, at which place they will be under the immediate supervision of Prof. T. H. Bryant of the Agricultural College. For the purpose of studying exhibits the boys will be divided in small groups in charge of competent instructors. It is the hope and intention of the Kentucky State Fair Management to make this a popular feature, and a permanent one—in which event a greater appreciation of the value and merit of a State Fair exhibit will be aroused.

SILOS

Of Concrete Popular in Kentucky—Agricultural Extension.

During the season of 1911 the College of Agriculture of the State University of Kentucky, in cooperation with the Dairy Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been active in promoting the building of silos and carrying on other dairy extension work throughout the State. Seven concrete silos were built and seven home-made silos set up, and repairs were made in several other cases. In addition fifteen other silos of various types were set up under the direction of the Dairy Division. All the silos proved satisfactory and especially valuable during the past severe winter. Everyone who built a silo has expressed himself as especially well pleased with it and many intend to build additional silos this summer. More concrete silos are being built this season than last and they are proving economical to build, many farmers preferring them to the wooden types. A 12x32 foot concrete silo was built at Lebanon last year for a cash outlay of less than $150. At Somerset a concrete silo 16x40 was built at a total cost of $400.

It is expected that twenty-five or more concrete silos will have been built by the end of this season. About twenty of the wooden types are being built under the supervision of the Dairy Division and in some cases have resulted in a saving of $50 to $100 each to the farmer. Farmers are availing themselves of this opportunity as is evidenced by the great number of inquiries that are coming in all the time.

The activity of the dairy extension work has not been confined to silo building alone, but plans have been formulated for a number of dairy barns. Five new barns were built complete last year and seven were re-planned and re-built, being changed from unsanitary, inconvenient arrangements to clean, convenient barns. In each of these superior visits to the farm and made individual plans, using existing conditions to the best advantage with the least expenditure of money. Just now there are five dairy barns being built and as many more being remodelled. Old tobacco barns are readily converted into practical dairies without much expense. The swing stanchions are generally used and concrete gutters and managers are installed in almost every case. Where bedding is readily secured concrete floors are also used. In some cases cork brick or cressote blocks are used on the platform where the cows stand. In 1911 three new milk houses were built and plans for five others that are being built now were made.

In connection with the construction work, individual records are kept of 150 cows in different dairies. In one dairy of twenty-five cows it was found that the entire profit was $642 in one year, the best cow yielding only 247 pounds of butter fat and the average being 200 pounds apiece. One cow yielding 103 pounds of butter fat, which was not enough to pay her board. Another herd of eight cows profited $457 in a year, with the best cow yielding 322 pounds of butter fat, the herd average being 267 pounds. One dairymen milks and cares for sixteen cows to get the same money that another milks eight cows for.

Wasteful feeding and inefficient cowhouse of years of hard labor and thousands of acres of good grain. The dairy expert of the University will show, just for the asking how large savings may be made each year and dairy work will not all be heartless drudgery.

LINE

Will Benefit Soils Says President
Finley of the Southern Railway System.

Washington, Aug. 10.—An investigation made by President Finley of the Southern Railway System has shown that experts in the chemistry of soils are unanimously of the opinion that lime in some form will benefit many of the soils of the Southeastern States by correcting their acidity and improving their mechanical condition.

President Finley has secured the opinions of experts throughout the Southeastern States and also in the Eastern and Middle States, in some of which experiments with the use of lime have been carried on for a long series of years. These opinions have been published in an illustrated folder which is being widely distributed among the farmers in the territory traversed by the lines of the Southern Railway System.

Farmers and others interested in this subject may obtain copies of this folder by addressing W. W. Finley, President, Southern Railway, Washington, D. C.

Southern Agriculturist.

The Southern Agriculturist, the leading farm paper of the South, and The Jeffersonian, will be sent for one whole year on receipt of $1.20. Mail subscriptions at once to this office.

While we are talking and waiting a great deal and expending much thought on the subject of school agriculture and the promotion of farm activities, we lead children to take an interest in the soil and the possibilities of its cultivation it would be just as well for us not to overlook the importance of this same subject of the soil and its products to that class of city grownups who have the ground, or can get the ground for the cultivation of a kitchen garden. Also to that class of so-called farmers in the rural districts, who having the ground and the time yet fail to raise enough to supply their own needs.

KENTUCKY STATE FAIR FEATURES

Expensive List of Attractions
Free to Visitors.

PRIZES AGGREGATE $30,000.

This Big Sum to Be Distributed Among Exhibitors—Great Show of Live Stock in $100,000 Pavilion—Toss Band Concerts Daily—Horse Races and Auto "Stunts."

Two things that are essential to the success of an educational and amusement institution, according to J. W. Newman, commissioner of agriculture, and James L. Dent, secretary of the Kentucky State Fair, are inducements to draw exhibitors and attractions to draw the public. With this idea in view the officials have set out to make it profitable to both exhibitors and patrons, and to that end nothing has been left undone that might aid to the drawing features both from the standpoint of exhibitors and of the public generally. Rich prizes have been offered by the management to insure the greatest display of exhibits ever seen in any section of the south or west—more than $30,000 to be distributed to the successful exhibitors in the various departments.

As an evidence of their faith in the people of Kentucky to patronize an institution such as the State Fair has become Commissioner Newman and Secretary Dent have gone to great expense in securing the greatest line of amusements ever provided for the people of Kentucky or the south. The Liberty and his famous band, one of the greatest musical organizations in the country, composed of forty-two musicians and six soloists, have been secured at a big expense, and the music loving public who attend the Fair this year will have no complaint to register on this score. This noted organization will be heard in concert each afternoon and night in the big pavilion. For those of the visitors who would rather patronize the racing feature of the Fair than the horse show the management has secured another noted organization in the famous Hay & Scally Band of Louisville, which will furnish the music at the race track on the grounds each afternoon during the week.

For the free attractions for each afternoon and evening the management has provided some of the most sensational acts ever presented to the public. Who in this section of the country has ever witnessed automobiles passing through the air at a height of fifty feet? For the first time in the south or middle west and one of the few times in this country such an exhibition will be witnessed at the State Fair this year, when, every afternoon at 2 o'clock and each night at 8:30 o'clock, two 1,200 pound machines will loop the loop from a tower at a height of sixty-five feet. This is regarded as the most sensational act ever contrived by the human mind, and just as often as it is attempted just so often do the exhibitors daily with death in midair.

At no time during the entire day will there be a dull minute for visitors, it being the aim of the management to provide such a line of attractions in addition to the regular exhibits that visitors for one day only can leave for their homes the same night expressing the belief that they have been well repaid for the time and money spent in coming to Louisville for the one day. In order to please the one day visitors the management has looked well to the daylight attractions, and the big $100,000 live stock pavilion will be the scene of much activity from early morning until late in the afternoon. Among the exhibits to be seen in the pavilion will be the horse show, which will be given from 10 o'clock each morning until 4 o'clock each afternoon, so that visitors may see the best ring of the day and get to the railway stations in time to catch their trains for home, none of which leaves the city earlier than 5 o'clock.

This great exhibition of live stock in the pavilion, coupled with the races and open air attractions in front of the grand stand each afternoon, makes the free attractions the biggest and best ever presented to the people in this section of the country.

Flags at Half Mast.

Ever since flags were used in war it has been the custom to have the flag of the superior or conquering nation above that of the inferior or vanquished. When an army found itself hopelessly beaten it hauled its flag down far enough for the flag of the victors to be placed above it on the same pole. This was a token not only of submission, but of respect. In those days when a famous soldier died his flags were lowered out of respect to his memory. The custom long ago passed from purely military usage to public life of all kinds, the flag flying at half mast being a sign that the dead man was worthy of universal respect. The space left above it is for the flag of the great conqueror of all, the angel of death.

Quite a Change.

NEW CEMETERY

Beautiful Burial Ground
Will Be Made.

Louisville and Jefferson County
in Need of One—Company
Capitalized at $300,000.

As there is a great need in Louisville and Jefferson county of a new cemetery a company known as the Evergreen Cemetery Company, has been organized and incorporated with a capital stock of $300,000. The company is composed of local men and others that have had experience in cemetery work.

The tract of land belonging to I. P. Barnard on the Preston Street Road and containing 240 acres, six miles from the center of Louisville, has been purchased by the company. W. J. Speed, a landscape artist of wide experience, will make topographical surveys and a beautiful new cemetery on the Eastern "lawn" plan will be established, with lakes, ornamental plants, etc. Forty acres of the tract will be used in beautifying the place and 200 for graves.

By the first of next October it is planned to have Evergreen cemetery ready for burials. It will be tiled and drained to a depth of eight feet and in every way placed in first-class shape.

Among the directors are E. F. Wetstein, the well known gardener on the Taylorsville road; Hancock Taylor, the Jefferson county real estate man; Geo. G. Fetter, of Louisville, and other local men whose judgment in buying stock in that company will go far towards influencing others to do the same. The officers are all prominent business men and the success of the venture is assured.

With the present death rate in Louisville and Jefferson county, it is estimated that provision must be made for 4,500 burials each year, and the present cemeteries, in a year or two, would be inadequate to the demand. The company has divided its capital stock into 30,000 shares of the par value of $10 a share, and improvements will be made from sales of stock, but later, it is said, they will be provided for by lot sales. Persons having money to invest will find that the Evergreen Cemetery Company is offering a splendid opportunity to the large as well as the small investor. Read the large advertisement on the last page of this issue for further information.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Link, of Keokuk, Mr. Walter Link and sister, Mrs. Metcalf, and nephews, Gathier and Booker Moore, and Sweeney Grace, of LaCenter, accompanied Miss Minor Cary Sweeney home.

Team of Jeffersontown Playing
Good Games—Good Line-Up

Next Sunday.

Fanelli Brothers baseball team of Jeffersontown, under the management of Barto Roemmele, has been very successful during the present season. Out of thirteen games played the local boys have won eight. They have always had a strong team and will play no other team unless it comes highly recommended. There is seldom any quarreling or disorder and the games have been clean and fair.

Last Sunday the boys lost to Stone's team of Louisville. The cause for losing is given to the fact that it was the unlucky thirteenth game of the season. Next Sunday Fanelli Brothers will play the Sapinsky team of New Albany. This team is one of the few that has defeated the local boys, and Manager Roemmele says they will have to "go some" to turn the trick again, as he will have the strongest line-up next Sunday of the season. The game will be called at Jefferson Heights at 3 o'clock.

Where Your Money Will Yield You Ever-Growing Cash Profits

Opportunities Come and Go

NO MAN OR WOMAN displays good business foresight that passes up or takes up every opportunity that comes their way. But wise are they that have the disposition to take nothing for granted, but investigate for themselves—see with their own eyes—find out beyond a shadow of doubt, that things are as they are said to be.

That's Just What We Want.

WE ARE HONEST in our convictions and beliefs; and we want to, and WILL, deal honestly and squarely with you. We want you to investigate us and our proposition—we will gladly prove to your satisfaction our every claim. We can't in this advertisement—that's why we ask you to write for full information.

It Is An Honest Fact.

HERE IS AN unusual opportunity for men and women of moderate means to combine their savings with the money of others in a non-taxable, non-assessable investment, increasing in cash profits and value each year.

If you have only a small amount of money to invest, your chances for getting in on the "ground floor" of the best cash profit-paying enterprises are very scarce. About the best you can do with a small amount is a loan at 4% or a 3% time deposit in your bank, your paying on either investment the same rate of tax per dollar as the big investor whose money yields him 10% to 40%.

How It Came About.

LOUISVILLE and Jefferson County are gravely in need of a new cemetery, for all but one is overcrowded. That one is so rapidly filling up that the prices for its choicest lots are practically prohibitive except to the wealthy class, then too it is so surrounded by the city that further expansion is impracticable and all but this one are sectarian, open only to members of their own congregation.

Even with the present death rate in Louisville and suburbs, burial places must be provided for approximately 4,000 each year, and with the steady increase in population, at least fifty thousand within the next ten years. This is a cold, hard-headed existing fact; and when we realize the situation, we bought a 240 acre tract of land near the city limits and started Evergreen Cemetery.

Landscape Artist At Work.

THE LANDSCAPE Artist is at work now in laying off the tract in conformity with the approved modern methods adopted by successful Lawn Cemeteries of the East; with drives, walks, boulevards, artificial lakes and other up-to-date equipment.

All Big Successes.

OTHER LAWN Cemeteries, all big successes. Mount Royal Cemetery, Pittsburg, has been open to the public for only nine years and has paid nine dividends. Detroit, Michigan, has four profit sharing cemeteries, all dividend payers. The shares in Rosedale and Linda Park Cemeteries near New York City went from par ($25) to $75 in three years. Woodlawn Cemetery, New York, pays 40% in yearly dividends, and its shares when offered at all, bring $75 for each $20 share (par value). Other similar instances can be given.

A People's Proposition.

THE GREATER the number of shareholders, the greater the influence and efforts for the sale of lots. And the more sales of lots, the quicker and greater the profits.

The possibilities for profits from lot sales in Evergreen Cemetery are so great that only two hundred lots need be sold the first year to yield a net profit of more than 6%, but it is confidently believed that within a year from the first burial, a 10% dividend can be declared.

Get full information now. Don't delay.

A Safe-Guarded Investment.

THE Evergreen Cemetery Company, a strong safe-guarded Louisville and Jefferson County enterprise, offers you an opportunity for a safe and profitable non-taxable and non-assessable investment, in which you will be assured of a net profit of at least 10% each year, with a reasonable probability of a steady advance to 25% to 30% every year on your money, for a life time. It is safe-guarded by real estate, the best security in the world. In fact, it is a real estate proposition itself, under the management of clean, honest, conservative and successful business men of this county and State.

Easy Payments for You.
